Job description

Job Title: External Affairs Manager (Stakeholder Relations)
Reporting to: Head of External Affairs
Salary: £50,072 per annum plus excellent benefits
Contract type: 6-month fixed-term contract
Hours per week: Full-time team members work 37.5 hours per week, and with hybrid working, those hours can be done any time between 7 am – 7 pm. Core working hours are 10 am – 3 pm. For this role, we would need a minimum of 2 days per week in our London office, in line with our hybrid working framework.

The Health Foundation
We are an independent charity committed to bringing about better health and healthcare for people in the UK.

The Health Foundation aims to bring about better health and healthcare for people in the UK. We do this in a number of different ways, from publishing research and analysis, to giving grants, to communicating what we learn to try and bring about change.

The communications team directly contributes to the delivery of the Foundation’s objectives in a number of ways, including by ensuring the effective communication of our work to influence the on-going development and improved delivery of health care policy and practice in the UK. The remit of the communication team’s external affairs function includes public affairs, media relations, stakeholder relations and corporate communications.

Purpose

The post plays a key strategic and operational role in enabling the Health Foundation to achieve impact in support of its strategic objectives. The post holder will:

• provide specialist strategic advice to enable effective engagement with parliamentarians, local and national government, and other key stakeholders
• lead the design and implementation of integrated communications and influencing strategies in support of specific strategic priority area(s): in this case, around health inequalities
• proactively monitor the external environment and suggest ways of responding to topical issues, particularly in relation to the general election, in close collaboration with the Head of External Affairs

We value diversity and aim to build an inclusive workplace that embraces people from all backgrounds, including those who have encountered social and systemic barriers or have not had equitable opportunities. Therefore, we strongly invite candidates from underrepresented groups in the charity, media, press, and think tank sectors, including those who may have experienced limited opportunities due to factors such as education, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or social class, to apply.

We are also committed to making reasonable adjustments for candidates who have accessibility requirements.

Roles and responsibilities

Key relationships

The External Affairs Manager (stakeholder relations) will need to build strong and productive relationships with:

• The external affairs team, ensuring a joined-up approach between media and public affairs for maximum strategic influencing impact. The EA function sits within the communications directorate and currently includes four external relations managers – two with lead responsibility for media relations and two for stakeholder relations: drawing on these is critical for this role.
• The wider communications directorate, drawing on their expertise to develop impactful integrated communications.
• Colleagues across the Health Foundation to support them in maximising the impact of their research, analysis and the lessons from our funded work, particularly in their area of responsibility
• The chief executive and directors’ team, providing them with robust public affairs, stakeholder relations and strategic communications advice
• External stakeholders including arm’s-length bodies, parliamentarians’ staff, civil servants across government as well as peers in communications across the health and care sector.

The post-holder will also need to facilitate effective relationships with:
• The Health Foundation’s grant-holders or partners to support them in engaging with external affairs activity
• External stakeholders including parliamentarians, ministers, opinion leaders in the health and care sector, and senior civil servants across government and the arm’s-length bodies.

Public affairs and stakeholder relations

1. Lead and support the delivery of parliamentary, local government and stakeholder engagement strategies, including the design and delivery of impactful and timely reactive and proactive public affairs activity that contributes to the Health Foundation’s influencing and communications objectives.
2. Manage an effective, coordinated corporate approach to identifying target policy influencing stakeholders and engaging with them, including overseeing the commissioning and development of briefings for senior Health Foundation staff.
3. Provide accurate and timely intelligence about and analysis of political, policy and stakeholder developments across the UK. Use this intelligence to identify opportunities and recommend activity that will maximise these opportunities, in line with agreed objectives.
4. Together with the other External Relations Manager (stakeholder relations), develop and maintain an effective infrastructure for public affairs and stakeholder relations activity, including overseeing maintenance of accurate data about target stakeholders and provision of a high quality, externally-supplied political monitoring service.
5. Identify and manage public affairs risks from the Health Foundation’s work which might impact upon our reputation and/or relationships.

Integrated communications

6. Lead development, delivery and evaluation of integrated communications plans for Health Foundation products and reports, drawing on expertise from across the communications team and blending communications disciplines as appropriate (including digital communications, publications production, marketing, events, media relations and public affairs).
7. Work closely with the wider External Affairs team to ensure integrated approaches to influencing, particularly in disseminating key stakeholder materials.
8. Contribute to the development of the Foundation’s overarching influencing and communications strategies, supporting strategy development in close collaboration with colleagues, as required.

Media relations

8. During busy periods, contribute to the effective management of the Foundation’s media relations, including by drafting policy positions, helping secure and track stakeholder quotes and reaction to our research, and providing robust advice to senior staff about how to effectively manage interviews with journalists.

Management

9. Provide effective support and direction to more junior members of the team, ensuring they contribute productively to the work of the wider external affairs team.

General

10. Conduct meaningful evaluation of all your communications activity, engaging colleagues across the organisation in identifying learning and using this to improve.
11. Maintain an effective personal network of contacts in the health and care sector to support the Foundation in gathering information and working collaboratively with other organisations.
12. Consider the opportunities and implications for digital communications in every aspect of his/her work.
13. Develop and manage the budget for his/her areas of responsibility, ensuring value for money.
14. Contribute to the efficient and effective running of the communications team through working closely with colleagues, clear communication and a willingness to contribute across the team as necessary.
15. On occasion, commission and manage external suppliers and freelancers to deliver elements of communications plans.
16. Some out of hours work is required.

The post holder will at all times aim to embed our key behaviours - Working together, Achieving impact, Discovering and learning – in all aspects of their day to day delivery in the role.

Wider contribution

As with other staff at the Foundation, the postholder will be expected to contribute to corporate activities and initiatives, such as staff meetings, cross-Foundation leadership and development programmes and other corporate projects as necessary. The postholder will similarly be expected to play a role in supporting and helping to develop the External Affairs team to enable it to improve its effectiveness.

Candidates should have the right to work in the UK at appointment.
